

THE VENUE

Created by Kohl Glass, Chantelle Squires
& [redacted] Nik Day

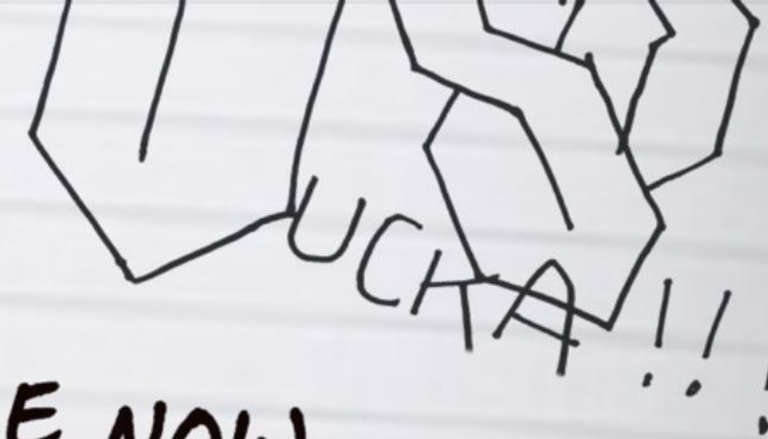

LOGLINE

The Venue is a show about the pursuit of creativity and passion, and reclaiming one's destiny. It's about how the definitions we use [redacted] for ourselves both empower and hinder. It's about being true to yourself before you discover who you are. In short, it's about [redacted] music.

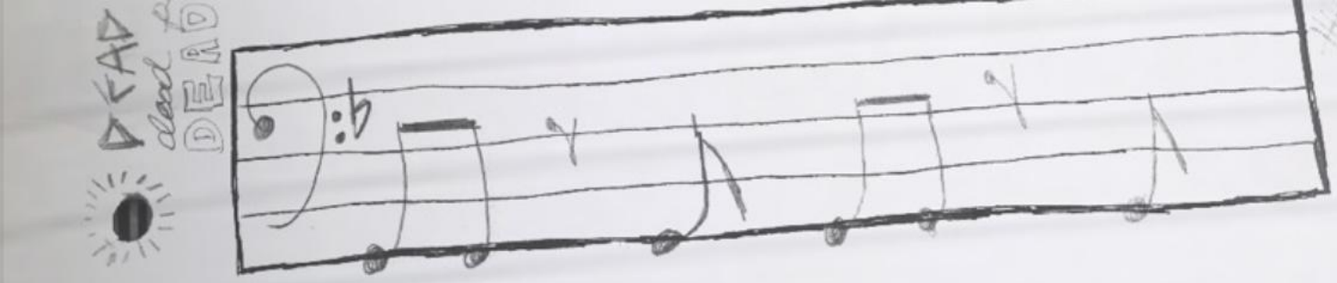

BAND PRACTICE

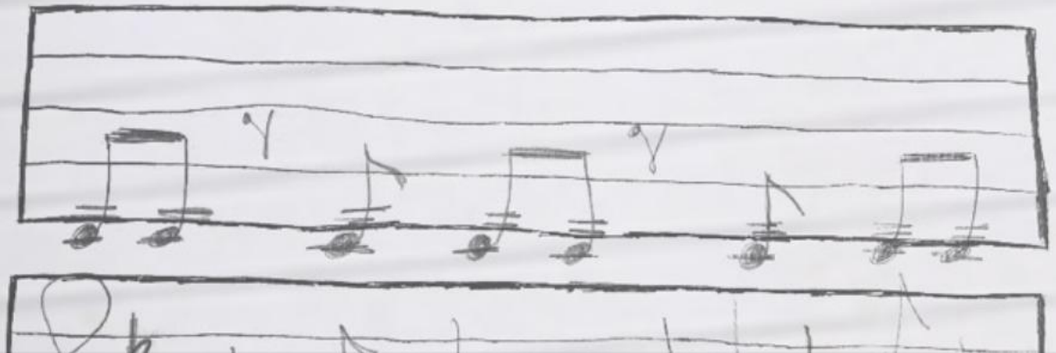

IN TREBLE NOW

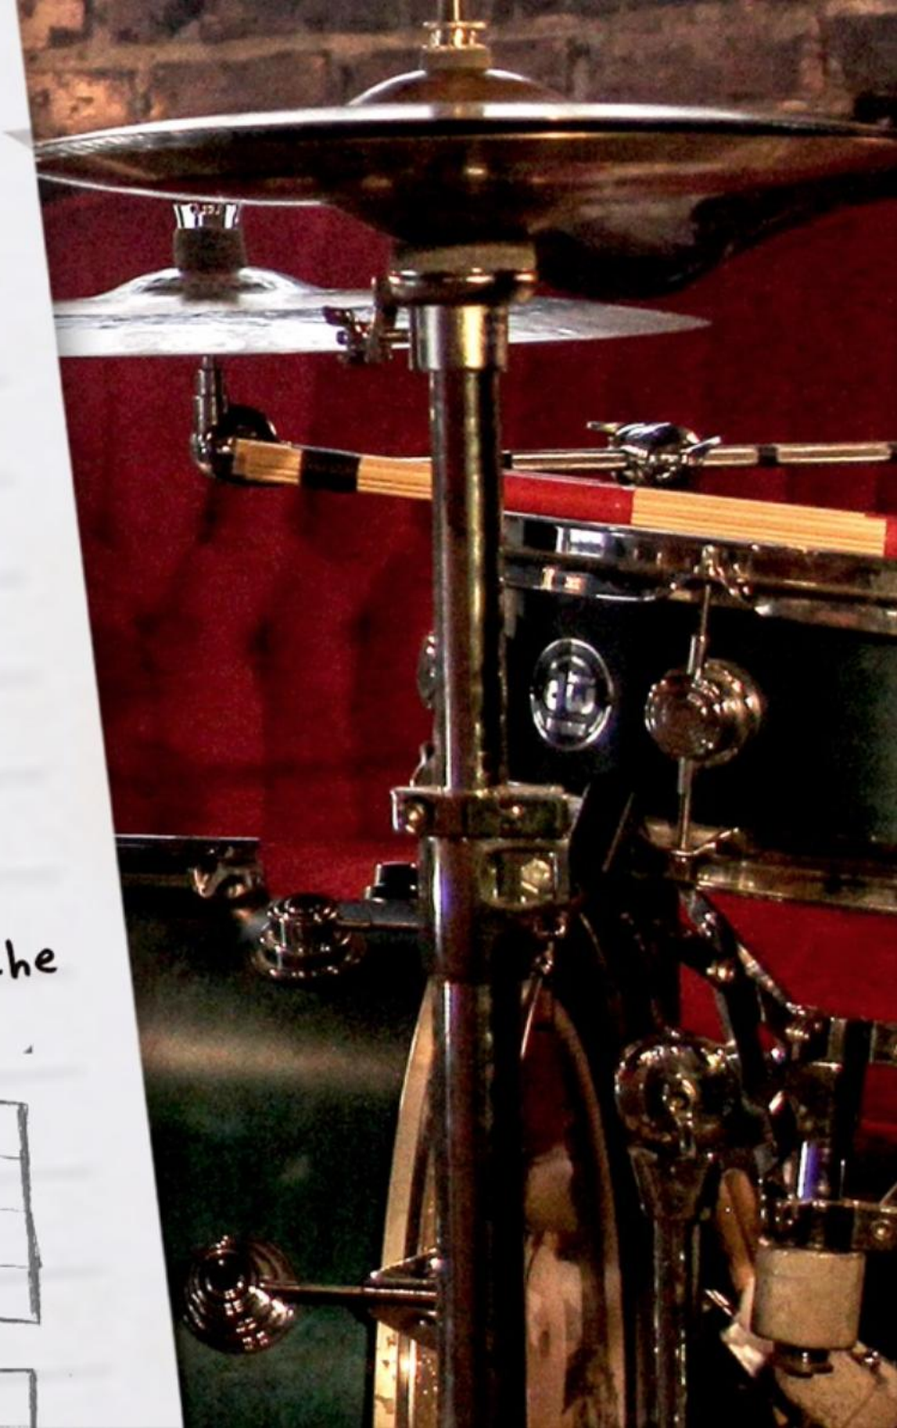

KAT TAYLOR lands on the doorstep of her AUNT MARILYN's house in PROVO, UTAH with nothing but a damaged guitar, a broken heart, and a promise to her father that she will never play music again. After all, it was the lead singer, TYLER BRODE from her band back in Seattle that got her knocked up at 17 in the first place. Kat's dad, a staunch Mormon, is convinced that the most Mormon city in the [redacted] most Mormon state is the perfect place to hide Kat away and let her think about what she's done as she waits out her pregnancy.

DRUM-TASTIC

But little does Kat know that Provo sits on one of the largest underground music scenes in the country. Home of the nationally famous VELOUR LIVE MUSIC GALLERY and the summertime ROOFTOP CONCERT SERIES, the city has spawned many popular bands including Imagine Dragons, Neon Trees, The Fictionists, and Moth and the Flame to name a few. Thousands of hopeful musicians gravitate to Provo's best-known secret, looking to be the next big [redacted]thing.

SOME VIBRATO

When Kat's new friend, LEITH WIEDOW drags [redacted] her to THE VENUE, a live music gallery she feels excitement for the first time since moving to Provo. Kat feels a lot of shame for getting pregnant, she wants to obey her parents, but music is who she is and that night at The Venue reminds her of that. Soon after, Kat starts a new band with [redacted] Leith called THE DEAD PEN TRACKS.

DEAD PEN TRACKS

THE DEAD PEN TRACKS

KAT TAYLOR - the mysterious songwriter, singer and guitarist

MARC HALSEY - the former boy band lead singer searching for his next 15 minutes of [redacted] fame

SETH CLINE - the moody, artistic bassist

LEITH WEIDOW - the spunky keyboardist and Kat's new BFF

KENT GILES - the straight-laced, kick-ass [redacted] drummer with adeep rooted secret

#1 SINGLE

The Rooftop Concert Series is a big deal in Provo, and the Dead Pen Tracks' want nothing more than to play there this summer. To make [redacted] things more difficult, Kat is torn between her feelings for two fellow band members: MARC, the charismatic yet mercurial lead singer, and the aloof and moody SETH. She tries to resist, since feelings like those are what got her in trouble in the first place, but she struggles to keep her distance. These relationships are nearly torn apart when the reason Kat was sent to Provo is accidentally revealed: she is pregnant with the baby of her [redacted] former bandmate, Tyler.

LANDING FLAT

Marc doesn't know how to handle Kat's pregnancy. It's not what a high school boy signed up for, so he peaces out and starts a new band called BLUESHIFT. Seth is heartbroken as well as his image of Kat is [redacted] also altered. Even through that, he can see that Kat is committed to her passion and is really still the same girl he met, and so he sticks with her. It's not an easy ride for Kat considering that through all of this drama she is also debating whether or not to put her baby up for adoption [redacted]

AMP'D UP

Kat throws herself into her music, and her amped up passion elevates the band like never before. Seth and Kat work completely in sync and easily vibe off one another doing what they love the most. In fact, it's so good that [redacted] the Rooftop Concert Series is within reach, but when Dead Pen Tracks gets beat out by Blueshift, Kat and Seth both realize that the journey that they've been on together was worth it anyway. It would be a tender moment, but [redacted] then Tyler shows up, ready to get married and [redacted] take care of Kat and their baby.

ENCORE

Kat finds herself faced with a decision: say yes to Tyler and the path that [redacted] any good Mormon girl would take OR choose The Dead Pen Tracks and discover who she really [redacted] is through music.
